“ A productivity improvement tool for automated web data extraction ”

Online Research has become a fundamental necessity across industries. The purpose is to understand the industry trends, track competitor activities, and forecast areas of future growth.

Companies spend considerable time extracting data from the web and analyzing the web data. Manual online research is a laborious activity taking up employees' bandwidth and is prone to human errors.

To solve this pain point, an automation tool for conducting online research is required.

YUNO, the flagship product of Yunoworld Technologies, is a cloud based web extraction tool which provides customized web data extraction.
